

ABSTRACT

Specific pressure and temperature conditions of an engine being measured are achieved by a compressor and a coolant controller, and bore distortion is measured as a 5 gap between a rotation unit and a cylinder wall, wherein the measuring position may be vertically and angularly varied.